Special thanks to Wahida Karmally and her colleagues at the Irving Center for Research at Columbia University for testing the recipes with the Latino community.

Recipes were analyzed using the Nutrition Data System for Research 2005.

Dear Friends:

Staying healthy can be a challenge, but simple lifestyle changes can help a lot—like eating healthy and being physically active. Research shows that engaging in these health-promoting behaviors can help reduce the risk of heart attack and stroke.

The National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute developed this cookbook to introduce Latino families to a variety of popular dishes prepared in a heart healthy way. ¡Qué viva la tradición! The traditional Latino cuisine is as varied as the cultural heritage of Latin America and the Caribbean. The recipes have all the nutrition and great taste that characterize this rich culinary heritage, but have less saturated fat, trans fat, cholesterol, sodium, and calories.

The recipes show you how to prepare tasty, healthy meals. They use fat-free milk, small amounts of vegetable oil, lean cuts of meat, poultry without the skin, fish, beans, fruits, vegetables, and lots of fresh herbs and spices for flavor. Follow these heart healthy tips to start a tradition of healthy eating in your family.

This updated recipe book includes new recipes, along with some of your old favorites. There is also information on heart healthy food substitutions, food safety, and a glossary of terms including other names in Spanish.

Try these recipes for your daily meals, family celebrations, and fiestas.

We know they will soon become your family's favorites!

(Mexican Beef and Hominy Stew)

Lentil Soup

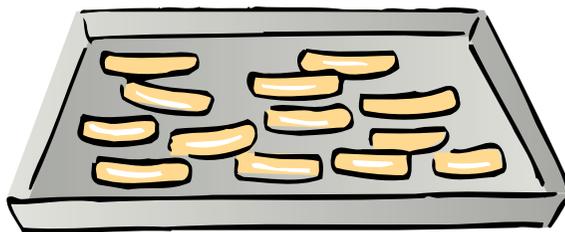

Oven-fried Yuca

- 1 pound fresh yuca (cassava), peeled and cut into 3-inch sections (or 1 pound peeled frozen yuca)
- nonstick vegetable oil spray

1. In a kettle, combine the yuca with enough cold water to cover it by 1 inch. Bring the water to a boil, and slowly simmer the yuca for 20 to 30 minutes or until it is tender.

2. Preheat oven to 350 °F.

3. Transfer the yuca with a slotted spoon to a cutting board, let it cool, and cut it lengthwise into $\frac{3}{4}$ -inch-wide wedges, discarding the thin woody core.

4. Spray a cookie sheet with the vegetable oil spray. Spread yuca wedges in a single layer on the cookie sheet and spray the wedges with vegetable oil spray. Cover with foil and bake for 8 minutes. Uncover and return to oven to bake for an additional 7 minutes.

Pupusas Revueltas

(Salvadoran-style Stuffed Masa Cakes)

- 1 pound ground chicken breast
- 1 tablespoon vegetable oil
- ½ small onion, finely diced
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1 medium green pepper, seeded and minced
- 1 small tomato, finely chopped
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 5 cups instant corn flour (masa harina)
- 6 cups water
- ½ pound low-fat mozzarella cheese, grated

1. In a nonstick skillet over low heat, saute chicken in oil until chicken turns white. Constantly stir the chicken to make sure it is evenly cooked.
2. Add onion, garlic, green pepper, tomato, and salt, and mix well. Cook until chicken mixture is cooked through (internal temperature, 165 °F). Remove the skillet from the stove. Put the mixture in a bowl and cool in the refrigerator.
3. While the chicken mixture is cooling, place the corn flour in a large mixing bowl and gradually stir in enough water to make a stiff tortilla-like dough.
4. When the chicken mixture has cooled, mix in the cheese.
5. Divide the dough into 24 portions. With your hands, roll the dough into balls. Press a hole in each ball with your thumb.
6. Put about a tablespoon of the chicken mixture into the hole in each ball. Fold the dough over to completely enclose it. Press the ball out with your palms to form a disk.

7. In a very hot iron skillet, cook the pupusas on each side until golden brown.
8. Serve hot with Encurtido Salvadoreño. (See page 6 for recipe.)
